About Her

My self Indu Verma working as a principal in Delhi school. Dedicated towards my family and profession Mother of two younger kids. Working as a president and trustee of All india films and television associations for Delhi region.

I am Ms. Indu Verma, Educationist, Social Activist, Advisor for YSF Entrepreneurship Program, Trustee and President of AIFTAA (All India Film Television and Art Association) Delhi Region, Principal of Senior Secondary School in Delhi, Counselor, Member of Dilli Sahodaya and recently awarded as a Corona Warrior and recognized by Nari Ratan Award in March 2021.

Background

I was born in a middle class family with a military and Air Force background. My birth took place in a Military Hospital, Ambala Cantt. My father has served in Indian Air Force as Security and Counter Intelligence Officer for 38 years. As a kid with an inquisitive mind to explore the unexplored spaces in our own homeland, I was lucky enough to live in transient as we used to shift from places including Assam, Bangalore, Jammu, Prayagraj, Jodhpur etc. because of my father's job.

I did my nursery schooling in Assam, started my elementary schooling in a Convent School in Jammu, completed my high school in Jodhpur, Senior secondary from Kendriya Vidhyalya and graduated from Karnataka University in Belgaum, Karnataka. I proceeded for my Post graduation in M.A, M.Ed from MD University in Rohtak.

On Being a Teacher

I gave a break from further qualifying degrees to be employed as a teacher. My first reflection on being a teacher was that my own sense of understanding for imparting knowledge among others is satisfying. In my 22 years of my journey educational field from being a class teacher to being a Principal, I learned a lot, understood and overcame every obstacle, learned to practice kindness and not be impulsive. I believe, if I can make a student smile, who feels he/she has nothing to smile about or nothing to learn in a good way ; if I can teach a lesson along with practical considerations of real life and clarifies the concept ; if I can boost the morale and self esteem of a child ; boost confidence in my children and most importantly, if I was not being harsh on my students and gave them a sense of allowance to share their problems with me, then, I feel I have created a difference. Now when I recollect my journey, I feel so proud of myself and most importantly I am proud of my path that I chose wisely without delaying. I climbed the ladder gradually in education department from a teacher, then a coordinator and finally a Principal but we are humans, we keep on searching and growing so I don't intend to stop anyhow.

Work as a Principal

My work as a Principal of a school is very complex. I am, among many roles, the instructional leader, the evaluator, the manager and the learner. Anyway, when I took up teaching, the teacher's profile had completely changed. The students, their parents, the administration, lesson plans, observation reports, report cards, bulletin boards, assemblies, skits, national and international competitions, standardized testing – the list is endless but I continued to find ways to keep the standard high in the classroom. My teaching philosophy is simple as pie: Teach like it is your last day today! Try to give your abecedarians all of your knowledge so that knowledge can grow and expand to an extent where novelties can bloom and be implemented in order to exercise them for bridging up the loopholes which exist in our societies presently. I believe bookish language can only sustain for a tentative time being but the extraction of that bookish language is our understanding which can help in brushing up our existing skills. So skills matters the most in a practical world.

Hardships

As life is not a bed of roses, hardships are inevitable, my struggles have been a great teacher for my emotional growth. Family issues were there, I faced some brutal experiences which I handled maturely. My kids and my husband are always there eventually. That is what matters the most at the end. My social circle is helpful and makes a great deal of healthy relationships in my life. I have an expanded social circle including many esteem educationists.

I attended many conferences and consortiums, served in many social causes and workshops. I have been an adventure geek my entire life and have travelled a lot in India and some international spaces. Every new place is so beautiful which shows different sides of my moral sense and capture every moment with my heart. Travel can be the best companion for anyone at any point in their life. My vision seems transparent to be me for educating every class of society and reduce the inequalities between children or wipe off the prejudice for less privileged children to learn quality education and have good quality life ahead.

Journey

My journey started when i noticed that there is financial scarcity in my family, as i had done diploma in beauty course so i started my own business of a parlour. i am running the parlour since 15 years and upgrading my knowledge in this field. In this period only, i physically and emotionally struggled a lot wherein i lost my first baby though this was a big challenge so to come out of this setback, on a positive note i diverted my mind towards yoga.

Back then yoga was the best solution which i feel today. So i gained knowledge from a very well institute in noida and started to take online classes during covid-19. i got appreciations and good reviews from people that motivated me to move ahead so i gave an exam of YCB LEVEL-1 from bharat sarkar ayush mantralay, gujarat and cleared it which made me well known yoga instructor. I conclude my journey by saying that knowledge is a never ending process and i will continue to gain from wherever i get.

Works

As now this is my passion - beauty and fitness, for beauty i try to go natural and use homemade products which are eco-friendly too. In covid i got an opportunity to join NGO where i started to teach economically weak kids which gave me immense satisfaction and pleasure.

Dreams

I will continue to upgarde myself with minute and advanced knowledge of beauty and yoga so that it can transform others lives too.

My dream is to create my own ngo where i provide education and how to live a healthy life as both the things are interrelated.
